

Statement concerning the situation in the Holy Land

On behalf of the World Day of Prayer Palestine, we extend our heartfelt concern and solidarity to all those affected by the ongoing situation in Israel and Palestine, particularly the distressing events in Gaza. We firmly believe that in times of conflict, there should be no sides, only a humane side.

The suffering and loss of innocent lives in this region are a cause for deep sorrow and a call to action for peace and compassion. We appeal to all parties involved to prioritize dialogue, understanding, and reconciliation as the path towards lasting peace and justice.

In these trying times, let us remember that the human experience transcends borders and political differences. We must stand together as one global community, advocating for the welfare and dignity of every individual, irrespective of their nationality, religion or origin. Together, we can work towards a brighter and more harmonious future for all in this troubled region.

We earnestly hope that the current events will not discourage people from praying for and standing with Palestine during these challenging times. Now, more than ever, is when such support is most needed. It is crucial to emphasize that standing with Palestine in its quest for justice and peace does not equate to being anti-Semitic or against any particular group. Our call for humanity and compassion transcends religious or political affiliations, striving for a world where the rights and dignity of all people are respected and upheld. Let us unite in the spirit of empathy, understanding, and solidarity, working together for a brighter and more peaceful future for all.

As we observe the World Day of Prayer Palestine, our thoughts and prayers go out to those suffering in Israel and Palestine, and we hold steadfast to the hope that one day, the people of this land will enjoy the peace and prosperity they so rightfully deserve.

Yours Sincerely,
World day of Prayer Committee in Palestine
